Seek the Welfare of the City

Jeremiah told the people in Babylonian exile to “seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile” (Jer 29:7). How were they to do this? Verses 5-6 give us a clue: “Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their produce. Take wives and have sons and daughters; take wives for your sons, and give your daughters in marriage, that they may bear sons and daughters; multiply there, and do not decrease.” Then, notice v. 7 again, “seek the welfare of the city where I have sent you into exile, and pray to the LORD on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare.” Then he tells them not to be deceived by false prophets.

To seek the welfare of the city, then, essentially meant that they were to build strong, influential families, pray to God on its behalf, and refuse to be deceived by false prophets.

Christians can do the same today where they live: build strong families that will influence the culture for good, continually pray on its behalf (cf. 1 Tim 2:1-4), and promote the truth of God's message (Phil 2:14-16).

Every Christian can seek to do this. Whether married (with or without children), single, or making plans, you can still influence the culture around you for the good, pray on its behalf, and stand for God's truth. Doy Moyer
